Preamble:

Senate's Ad Hoc Advisory Committee on COVID Academic Planning and Policies has a mandate to "...liaise with and advise the University's senior administration on COVID decisions affecting academic planning and policies, and how such decisions can be most effectively communicated and implemented". It has been active for many months, and its full activities are captured through minutes on its website

More specifically, the Ad Hoc committee has played a role in making important recommendations around academic planning, including the following:

- A) Offering instructors flexibility to offer up to 20% of their Winter 2022 courses from coming to our campuses.
- D) Developing support for online synchronous student accommodation requests.
- E) Continue to strongly encourage but not require content or use online synchronous when

The open discussion provides an opportunity to discuss topics pertaining to academic planning in the
